◀ SETTING UP CAMP

Corps' personnel from many North Atlantic Division districts provided oversight of the construction of both the Military Operations in Urban Terrain and Life Support Area sites for ROMEX 05, a joint U.S.-Romanian training exercise near the Romanian town of Babadag. The story can be read on page 4.

STATESIDE SUPPORT ▶

When Hurricane Katrina made landfall on Aug. 29, the Corps was readily assembling Forward Engineer Support Teams to help with relief efforts. Staff Sgt. Justin Ogletree (center) from the Europe District Emergency Operations Center shows Ron Mott (right) and Greg Fischer some of the equipment they will deploy with to Keesler Air Force Base, Miss.

On the Cover

Soldiers jump from a truck ready to attack during the joint U.S.-Romanian exercise dubbed ROMEX 05. About 1,800 U.S. and Romanian soldiers participated in ROMEX 05, developing interoperability in tactical training such as Military Operations in Urban Terrain, small arms training, convoy operations, and situational and live-fire exercises.
